

Kooheji Jewellery gives away one of the purest Diamonds in the world

Kooheji Jewellery announced this month the winner of the big draw for one of the purest solitaire rings in the world. The promotion made by the jewellery house to win a 1 Carat diamond ring was announced in the months of August and September for all the customers through vouchers given with any purchase that qualifies them to enter a draw for the precious ring.

The big draw, which was held on September 14th, in the Four Seasons Hotel with the attendance of < insert names >, revealed Mrs. Maryam AbdulRahim Al Bakr as the lucky winner of a 1 carat diamond ring that belongs to the premium Solitaire family of the Jewellery house. The ring itself, considered one of the most valuable rings in the world, holds a full carat of the purest diamond pieces with a cooler grading of “D Flawless” which is considered the highest and almost rarest in the world. The extremely pure and valuable ring comes also with a certificate from the GIA to certify its purity and authenticity.

Commenting on this, the company's CEO Mustafa Al Kooheji said: “We congratulate our winner customer and are extremely pleased that we have been able to dedicate a valuable piece to our customers to show them how valuable they are to us. We are always keen to provide the finest jewellery in our designs and our collections and this extends to the programs and rewards that we dedicate to our clients who brought us to our success today. We have decided to give this precious ring from our new range as a reward to our customers for always choosing to shop with us. And we are pleased to continue and provide such opportunities through other programs and awards that we have participated in this year in the community. We invite everyone to visit us in our branches to identify these opportunities and see our new line of solitaire diamond rings that we have recently launched.”

The draw was announced and covered through Kooheji Jewellery's social media outlets on Facebook, Twitter and Instagram where most of the Jewellery House's collections and designs can be found on a daily basis.